Assistant Professor

Submitted by Dustin Liang on Wed, 09/19/2018 - 13:17

The Department of French and Italian within the Division of Literatures, Cultures and Languages (DLCL) at Stanford University is seeking applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in French Studies. Applicants will be expected to teach courses at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in the area of Francophone studies, with preference given to specialists of sub-Saharan African literature. Applicants also will be expected to offer courses that can be cross-listed in the undergraduate curriculum of the Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity, and to become a member of the Center’s affiliated faculty. Native or near native fluency in French (and English) is required; fluency in one or more additional relevant languages is preferred. Applicants with (or expecting) doctoral degrees in history, sociology, religious studies, political science, or anthropology are also encouraged to apply.

Applicants will need to have the PhD in hand by the appointment start date of 9/1/2019. All application materials must be submitted online via www.AcademicJobsOnline.org (direct link: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/11847). Please transmit your cover letter, curriculum vitae (including list of publications), statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three (3) pages), teaching evaluations (if applicable), a writing sample the length of a typical research article or book chapter, along with three confidential letters of reference to the DLCL Francophone Search Committee by November 1, 2018. Inquiries (only) should be directed to Christine Onorato 650-725-9225 (conorato@stanford.edu), or Allen Sciutto 650-724-1240 (allen.sciutto@stanford.edu). The street address is: 450 Serra Mall, Pigott Hall 01-260, Stanford, CA 94305-2005.

Cluster:
Humanities and Arts

Department:
Department of French and Italian

Links
[2] mailto:conorato@stanford.edu
[3] mailto:allen.sciutto@stanford.edu